FAQs REGARDING EXIT

- The Exit is as you already know through a buy-back by the developer.
- The time is fixed and so is the buy back value.

Question 1

What if the developer does not buy-back?

Question 2

What if the sale is slow or the prices drop?

Question 3

What if the construction itself gets delayed for reasons beyond anyone's control?

Question 4

Does Quikr PropX guarantee returns?

What if the developer does not buy-back?

In that case, the LLP can sell it in the open market at the market price. (QuikrPropX will facilitate the open market sale).

As an example:
Let's say your purchase price of a 1000 sq ft apartment is Rs. 1cr (not including taxes, charges etc)
The market value of the apartment is Rs. 1.8 cr.

The developer had agreed to buy it back at the end of the 12th month for Rs. 1.2 cr

If the developer does not honor the buy-back agreement, then the LLP can sell the apartment in the open market for any price upto Rs.1.8 cr. which could result in higher profits. This will also involve some additional time for exit.

The developer has huge money at stake and therefore huge incentive to buy-back his apartment.

What if the sale is slow or the prices drop?

- Sales go through cycles. This is a fact. And it is then that prices fall too.

- But whenever we say especially in real estate, that sale is slow it is with reference to a particular price point.

  In the same example Sale of a 1000 sq. ft. apartment at a price point of Rs.1.8 crores maybe very slow. But if the same apartment drops its price to Rs.1.70 crores, the story could be different.

- In short, in such scenario, because the buy-back price will no longer apply after the buy-back period, the LLP will have a big margin which can allow it to discount its price to attract buyers.

- Trend analysis has shown that real estate prices do not fall very drastically within a year or two. However, theoretically if prices drop below your buy-back value, then it will lead to diminished profits.

What if the construction itself gets delayed for reasons beyond anyone's control?

This is also a very pertinent question and a possibility too. It is a definite risk.
The discounted price at which you purchased has already tried to factor in the cost of such delay

Let's take the earlier example
Here the market price of the apartment is Rs. 1.8 cr. (not including taxes, charges etc)
Your buy back value after 12 months is Rs. 1.2 cr.

In percentage terms you stand to gain 20% (not accounting for taxes, charges etc.)
Now let's assume

1) The construction gets delayed not by few months but by 2 years.
2) So, instead of exiting after 1 year, you will now be exiting after 3 years.
3) Let us assume, the price has also not appreciated in these 3 years.

But now the buy back value restriction is not applicable to you.

So, if you sell it at today's market value but after 3 years

- Then you would get Rs.1.8cr
- In percentage terms that would still be 21.5% approx. on an annualized basis (not accounting for taxes, charges etc.)

If there is a delay beyond it, only then you will experience diminished profits.

Does Quikr PropX guarantee returns?

- No. We cannot and do not guarantee returns or appreciation.
- Our role is restricted to identifying properties, negotiating prices and agreements, doing due diligence and bringing you a good deal. We verify the prevailing market rate, apprise you of the discount and the potential profit. We do not and cannot influence real estate prices in any manner.
- The decision to participate in the purchase the apartment is entirely yours based on all details shared prior by your financial advisor and after consultation with him.
- The payment for the apartment is also made by you directly to the developer and we are never in custody of your money.
- Because the decision is yours, the profit is yours too. We do not share in the profits either.
- We, in our capacity as a MahaRERA registered broker will sell the apartment on your behalf and also represent you wherever needed.

Thanks!
